The daily News
TROY IS IN PIECES.

Troy in flames as they are tricked by the Greeks.

The Greeks gave a trick present to the to the Goddess Athena. The present was a large wooden horse. Thinking they had won the war, the Trojans celebrated all day. Little did they know what was hiding inside. Inside the horse, 20 of the bravest Greek men were waiting for the night. When all of the Trojans had gone to bed they came out of the trap door, signalled the rest of the Greek army and started looting houses, killing people and setting Troy on fire.

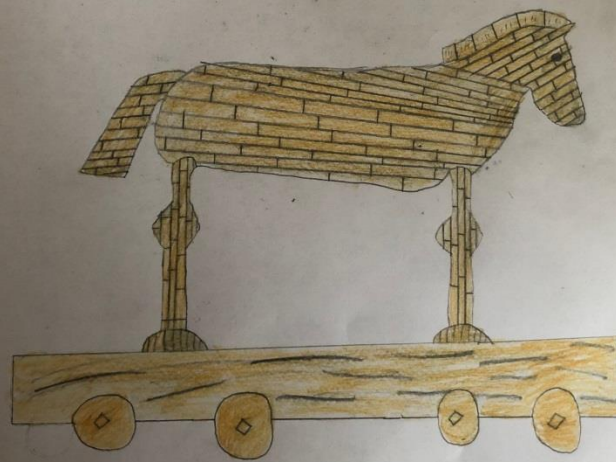

They delivered the message.

We spoke to Cassandra. She said: "I told them this would happen, I told them, but guess what, they didn't listen!" We asked Odysseus, how he came up with the idea of hiding in a horse. "We had to get in one way or another and we had to be sneaky about it."

Troy has been left in ruins, Paris and others lay dead while King Menelaus sailed home with Helen winning the 10 year war.

That's it for today folks.
