

Lewis Carroll research from Sarah and Mad Hatter art

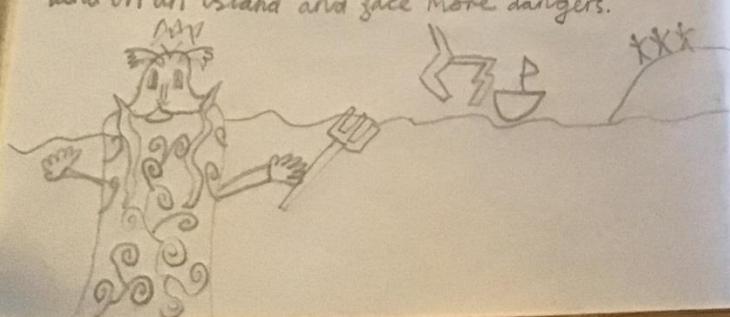

Odysseus and the Cyclops - Emil

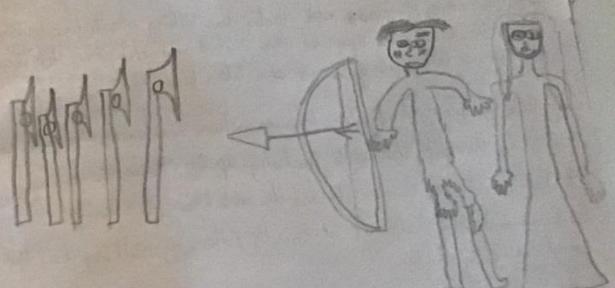

8/07/10 Topic:

The story starts on a ship, just after the Trojan war. The first sign of danger is when they can't find the owner of the sheep and cave. The excitement builds when Odysseus says he has a plan but you don't know what it is. A funny part of the story is when the cyclops is drunk. Odysseus and the rest of the Greek army outwit Polyphemus by calling themselves "Nobody" so when Polyphemus calls for help he says "Nobody is stabbing me," making him sound mad.

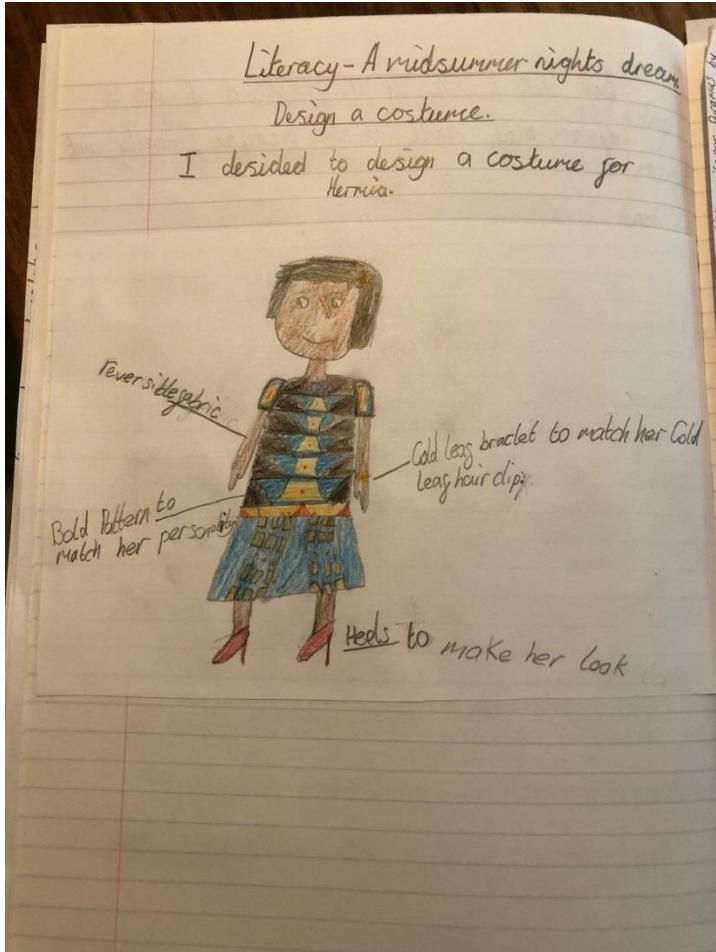

The climax of the story is when they are escaping. The story ends on a cliff hanger because you don't know what's going to happen to Odysseus. Odysseus is unwise to taunt Polyphemus because his father is Poseidon, god of sea, and they are travelling to sea. I think that Poseidon will send a big storm and shipwreck Odysseus and his crew. They will land on an island and face more dangers.

I think at first Odysseus's family won't recognise him but then they will, after a bit. I think everyone will be very happy when Odysseus comes home.

A Midsummer Night's Dream - Sophie

-- Literacy - Dreams --

Once, I had ^{a dog} ~~had~~ ^{that was} ~~was~~ that I owned a dog. I dreamt that my dog ^{was} a Beagle named Rocky. He ^{was} the best and only dog I had.

He slept on my bed every night and in the mornings we would go for a long ^{walk} as he was very active.

In the Autumn, in the garden he would always jump in the leaf piles.

In the winter, he would hide in the snow.

In the summer, we would go on picnics and take dog treats for Rocky.

In the spring, we would run all around the green and get competitive about it. Rocky always won!

But then, I woke up and realised it was a dream, that made me sad because I really want a dog.

Hand-drawn illustration of a Beagle dog.

The tragic tale of Pyramus and Thisbee

- Sophie

