First, Queen Elizabeth and King Ferdinand of Spain gave me money to try and sail to America west instead of east. It took me 5 days to get there. I thought I landed in the Indies but I did land in the Bahamas. No one there I lived knew about America. There were lots of people living there already. Because I thought I had landed in the Indies I called these native people 'Indians'.

It has been a very long time since we left Spain but today we finally spotted land. I heard someone shout 'Land' and there it was! I saw land with sandy beaches and trees. We sailed closer until finally we stepped onto the beach. "I name this land San Salvador," I said and I planted the flag into the ground to claim the land for the king and some Indians in the distance. Tomorrow we will go and talk to them. I hope they are friendly!
