The lighthouse

I was working at my table when I heard screams of joy and shouts of laughter, it was my friends having fun without me, by the time they got louder I lost control and slammed the window shut. But that wasn't all, I lost control I knocked my self against the table causing all the ink to spread. Just then they suddenly extinguished it's self. I hit a lantern and staggered staggered up stairs. I heard a noise while exhaustingly climbing the stairs, it was a ship and it was about to into the steep cliff. I had to move quickly if I didn't I would have let the town down. I opened the door to the light room and saw that the beacon was damage beyond repair so I picked it up very cautiously but then I tripped causing the glass to shatter! I ran down the stairs at stopping two at a time until I was at the bottom. I opened the door just about to warn people when all the people of the town were here to help me. It's like my town was gilled was gilled with heroes and heroines. They were all march up the hill with so many lantern and candles

And that is how the town saved the day!

On one side of the table write down words or phrases to describe Toad. On the other write down some evidence from the text to support this.
