Literacy - The Clock Tower

I wake up every morning to find I'm still in the clock tower, all alone. I used to have a cog out there, now I'm stuck here pivoting as the missing cog just so that the clock can work.

I have got to get out!

As I ran out the doors, everything turned black. It is like the clock tower gives us all our happiness. I reached out and try to touch a balloon, but it GOES GREEN! But when I let go it turns black again. I have to find that missing cog.

I search everywhere but still can't find anything. It feels like I have no hope left. I tip back to the clock tower dropping my head and facing the ground. My heart sinks and I feel dejected.

I am imprisoned here. Will I be trapped forever? I am so lonely, I just want to leave this tower and live my life as a talented ballerina with a normal lifestyle. I am sick of this repetitive world.

Suddenly, out of the corner of my eye, I saw a glint of light. I had to go investigate. As soon as I left my cog it went black again. How was I going to find that glint of light now? I pounded my way to the wall and stroked my hands along until I found a door handle. This must have been the light I saw. I opened the door and I could
